

Job Advertisement

The Goethe University Frankfurt am Main is one of the largest universities in Germany with around 44,000 students and with about 5,700 employees. As a comprehensive university, the Goethe University offers a total of 16 departments on five campuses and 154 degree programs along with an outstanding research reputation. Moreover the Goethe University is part of the Group of Rhine-Main-Universities (RMU).

The Faculty of Education at Goethe University Frankfurt, Interdisciplinary Aging Research Unit of the Institute of Social Pedagogy and Adult Education is seeking to fill the position of a as of 01 July 2024, initially for a fixed term of three years with the option of extension. The salary grade is based on the job characteristics of the collective agreement applicable to Goethe University (TV-G-U).

Research Assistant (m/f/d) Post-Doc (E13 TV-GU, 70% part-time)

The post holder will be based at the Interdisciplinary Ageing Research Unit (IAW) as a Senior Researcher, specialising in cultural and social science ageing research. The profile of the department includes participation in teaching on the BA/MA degree programme in Educational Sciences, the acquisition and implementation of third-party funded projects, cooperation with academics in Germany and abroad and active participation in the Frankfurt Forum for Interdisciplinary Ageing Research (FFIA).

Responsibilities: The post holder should

- participate in the application for and organisation of third-party funded projects;
- present and publish scientific findings (also internationally);
- be involved in independent teaching at the department;
- be involved in student counselling and the supervision of theses;
- participate in the organisation and design of the department;
- utilise the opportunity for independent research.

Recruitment requirements:

The candidate is expected to have completed a doctorate in educational science (or close in content) with a cultural and/or social science connection to the topic of ageing, excellent knowledge of qualitative or quantitative research methods as well as experience in academic teaching and a very good command of English.

The Goethe University is committed to a policy of providing equal employment opportunities for both men and women alike, and therefore encourages particularly women to apply for the position/s offered. Individuals with severe disability will be prioritized in case of equal aptitude and ability.

Please send your application with the usual documents (cover letter, CV, certificates, publications if applicable) by 31 May 2024 exclusively by e-mail (oswald@em.uni-frankfurt.de) to Prof. Dr. Frank Oswald, Interdisciplinary Aging Research (IAW), Faculty of Educational Sciences, Goethe University, Theodor-W.-Adorno-Platz 6, 60629 Frankfurt. Please note that application documents will not be returned. Costs incurred during the application process will not be reimbursed by Goethe University. We look forward to your application!