For 2019–2020, the JQYA defined a new research theme to address current issues in sciences, arts, and humanities: as basic principles, TENETS guide the practice of scientists across disciplines, social and political life in our societies. Such principles are, however, subject to important VARIATIONS. Any TRANSFORMATIVE changes over time challenge the fundamental nature of tenets and can result in a conceptual re-thinking.

CALL

We invite applications from all early career researchers, who are interested in this topic, and who would like to join our interdisciplinary debates.

Applications will be accepted until 30.04.2019.
