In a joint appointment process the DIPF | Leibniz Institute for Research and Information in Education and the Faculty Psychology and Sport Sciences of the Goethe University Frankfurt invite applications for the position of:

Professor (W3) in psychology with a focus on education and human development

This civil servant or public employee position will start as soon as possible.

The holder of the position will head the Department of Education and Human Development, a research department at the DIPF | Leibniz Institute for Research and Information in Education. Department heads of the DIPF are members of the Institute’s Executive Board. The department conducts basic and applied research on the analysis of individual and differential development in different educational contexts over the life course. There is a particular focus on the first decade of life.

We are looking for a leader who is internationally and nationally recognised and demonstrates outstanding scientific achievements related to the professorship and to the research profile of the "IDeA Center" (www.idea-frankfurt.eu). Experience in the management of research groups as well as the ability and willingness to cooperate across disciplines is indispensable.

The successful candidate should represent the Institute in national and international research networks, participate in science services, offer advice to educational policy and transfer to educational practice. Furthermore, the holder will participate in the scientific management of the IDeA Center. The professorship is also involved in teacher training, experience and concepts for teaching subject content in schools are welcome.

The teaching duties of the professorship (reduced teaching load) are subject to the Institute of Psychology at the Faculty of Psychology and Sport Sciences at Goethe University Frankfurt. The professor is welcome to collaborate in interdepartmental initiatives in the field of empirical educational research.

The Department of Psychology and DIPF embrace the values of open science and strive for transparent, open, and reproducible research. Applicants are asked to describe in what way they already pursued and plan to pursue these goals.

The formal hiring requirements are defined in sections 67, and 68 of the Hessian Higher Education Act (Hessisches Hochschulgesetz).

Goethe University and DIPF are equal opportunity employers, committed to diversity and inclusion. In particular, we are welcoming applications by qualified women and people with a migrant background. A special emphasis is placed on creating and sustaining a family-friendly work and research environment. Where applicants are otherwise equally qualified, preference is given to candidates with disabilities or equivalent. The same applies to women in fields in which they are under-represented.

To apply, please send a CV (academic and professional career), a list of publications, an overview of third-party funding, an overview of your research and teaching activities as well as transcripts and a selection of recent course evaluations as a single PDF document by 25.
