

Publication Server of Goethe University Frankfurt am Main

The University Library offers all members of the university - teachers and students - the opportunity to publish electronically generated, qualified documents free of charge via its online publication system. Once published, the texts are available worldwide on the Internet and are permanently archived by the library.

The documents are indexed and freely accessible via library catalogs and WWW search engines.

Further information can be found here:

<http://publikationen.ub.uni-frankfurt.de/home>

If you want to make your thesis available electronically on the publication server, use the menu item "Publish" on the above page, which will guide you through the upload process.

Notes:

For data protection reasons, the consent of your reviewers/supervisors is required for publication.

Please obtain their consent or black out/remove the corresponding places where reviewers/supervisors are named.

Regarding the question "Date of final examination" :

Please insert the date of the actual submission of the thesis to the examination office.

If personal data (address, matriculation number, curriculum vitae, etc.) are included in the thesis, you can remove/blacken them from the document.
