

Dr. Anke Reinhold | Manager for International Relations

International Relations at the Faculty of Social Sciences

Why is a stay abroad important during your studies?

Professional competence

At a foreign partner university, study content can be examined from a different academic perspective. This enables students to broaden their professional horizons.

Language skills

Abroad, both your studies and everyday life usually have to be mastered in a different language. Students learn new languages or consolidate existing language skills.

Intercultural competence

Students experience a change of perspective abroad. You will work in an international environment and get to know the culture, politics, and society of your host country.
